About this Journal

Somali Studies: A Peer-Reviewed Academic Journal for Somali Studies is a broad scope multidisciplinary academic journal devotes to Somali studies; published annually by the Institute for Somali Studies in print and online forms. Somali Studies aims to promote a scholarly understanding of Somalia, the Horn of Africa and the Somali diaspora communities around the globe.

Somali Studies provides a forum for publication of academic articles in broad scope of areas and disciplines in Somali studies, particularly focused on the humanities and social science. Somali Studies appreciates papers exploring the historical background or navigating the contemporary issues; special consideration will be given to issues which are critical to the recovery and rebuilding of Somalia, a country emerging from a devastating civil war.

Institute for Somali Studies (ISOS) is a research centre within Mogadishu University. The institute is established in March 2001 and aims at knowledge generation through research and analysis on Somalia, Horn of Africa, and the Somali communities in abroad. The institute conducts and coordinates researches, workshops, conferences, discussions and dialogues; and disseminates findings, reports, and analysis through publications and events.

Somali Studies is an open access journal and all articles are freely available to read, print and download from the website of the institute.

Author Guidelines

1. The journal publishes academic articles, which are the work solely of the author (authors) and has not been published before, nor under simultaneous consideration by any other publication.
2. The journal publishes in English and Somali languages in a clear and correct style. American or British English is fine as long as there is consistency.
3. The manuscript should follow the academic standards with appropriate methodology for each discipline. The citation and references can be in any style as long as the format is consistent throughout the manuscript.
4. The manuscript should not violate any copyright or intellectual property rights, and must be free from plagiarism. Ensuring this is the sole responsibility of the author.
5. The manuscript must be written with Microsoft Word, font Times New Roman size 12. All manuscripts must be submitted electronically.
6. The recommended length for an article is 5,000–10,000 words, with an abstract of 100 to 150 words and around 5 keywords.
7. The submission begins with an abstract and a biography of the author with full contact details, at any time. We highly appreciate early submission.
8. The manuscripts undergo initial evaluation by the editors. Suitable papers are then peer reviewed by two or more anonymous reviewers, and only approved papers will be published.
9. Proposed changes, if any, will be sent to the author to make necessary modifications, but minor adjustments are made by the editors with notification of the author.
10. The journal publishes book reviews on newly printed books, and also publishes the abstracts of theses and dissertations in its scope.
11. After publication of the paper, both the journal and the author have a full right to reuse it, in any form, though providing the first publication is acknowledged.
